S-Thunder SPM-300

S-Thunder has made a name for their company by producing authentic replicas of modern military firearms that realistically operate and even eject shell casings! Handling like an AR15 or M4 carbine and powered by CO2, the SPM-300 series of paintball markers fire .43 caliber paintballs fed from box magazines at well over 300 feet per second. SPM markers feature authentic carry handles, telescoping stocks, handguards, pistol grips and a forward assist practically identical to those found on AR15 and M4 rifles. Available in various barrel lengths to suit any preference or mission requirement, SPM-300 markers are ideal for military, law enforcement or security training or for the most serious tactical paintball players. www.S-Thunder.com

Stiffi Avalanche Barrel

Stiffi Barrels have burst back onto the scene in the world of paintball of-late, offering the same pro-level performance that powered them to NPPL championships a few years ago, in new designs. One of the newest Stiffi barrels to hit the market is the Avalanche model, made for Frank Connell and his St. Louis Avalanche team that competes at the highest level in the National Professional Paintball League. Lightweight and featuring plenty of porting for quiet shooting, the Avalanche model also features Stiffi's Micro-jeweled internal finish and a step bore. Available in a myriad of bore sizes and in kit form, the stylish Avalanche barrel was designed by popular paintball design house Forgotten Muse Media. Accurate, light, quiet and strong, the Stiffi Avalanche barrel is good enough for top professionals so it's certain to help you shoot straighter too! www.StiffiBarrel.com

Eclipse 2011 Overload Elbow Pads

When they're not making some of the most successful paintball markers the game has ever seen like the Ego, Etek and Geo, Eclipse makes other very successful paintball products as well. Some of the most successful products in the Eclipse portfolio are their extremely comfortable and durable Overload pads. A tournament player favorite that are rapidly making their way onto the arms of recreational and scenario players as well, Eclipse Overload Elbow pads offer protection for the wrists, forearms and elbows during all that sliding, crawling and diving that tends to happen in modern paintball. In addition, all that padding even encourages the occasional bounce when the wearer gets careless and leads with their shooting elbow. Comfortable, durable and well-made, Eclipse 2011 Overload Elbow Pads are a must-have for any serious paintball player. www.PlanetEclipse.com

2011 Valken Chainmail Redemption Pants

Valken smashed into paintball a short time ago and continues to ride high today thanks to their ability to produce edgy, stylish yet durable clothing at great prices. A perfect example of their paintball clothing prowess is their 2011 Redemption series White Chainmail playing pants. Comfortable and offering all the ventilation and padding a high-tech set of paintball pants should provide a wearer, Valken's White Chainmail pants look like nothing else on the modern market. Valken's White Chainmail pants are available in plenty of sizes to fit practically any player and made to last. For players looking to stand out inside the net, there isn't much better than Valken's 2011 Redemption White Chainmail Pants. www.ValkenPaintball.com
